JAPANESE GOVERNMENT ANXIOUS FOR PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT

Troops Evacuate From Wang Ping

London, July 9.
Most of the newspapers to-day largely feature the Sino-Japanese clash but make no comment.

Diplomatic and business circles believe that the Japanese Government is anxious for a peaceful settlement since harsh measures toward China would ruin the prospects of the British-Japanese negotiations and might also aggravate trouble with Russia and the Amur River.

Chinese loans are not affected and the demand for Chinese rails which were conspicuous in recent weeks, continues to be strong.

Several observers in no wise anti-Japanese emphasise the fact that there are huge Japanese forces in North China and the practice of having military manoeuvres all over the country constitutes just irritation to China and clashes were only to be expected.—Reuter.

CHINA'S NATIONAL RENAISSANCE

Courageous Facing Of Problems

GENERALISSIMO EMPHASISES "THREE NEEDS"

By THE EDITOR

II

Although it may appear that the matters I have mentioned in connection with the interpretation of the rules of the New Life Movement are of little moment when the unification of a great nation is concerned, yet the Chinese psychology must be considered, and "little things" count much more than the Western mind imagines.

However, the New Life Movement has gone very deep into the affairs of the nation, and now I shall quote the opium suppression campaign undertaken by the National Government and inspired by the teachings of the New Life Movement.

Opium Suppression

Recently seven men were executed in a Chinese inland town for trafficking in opium. The enforcement of the prohibition of opium peddling is rigorous to the point of being ruthless, but this nefarious trade has so demoralised literally millions of people in China, that if it were not checked now there is no saying to what ultimate nation-wide degeneration it would lead. Realising this, Chiang Kai-shek and his supporters have taken the opium pipe by the bowl and smashed it. Their purging task in this connection is, however, extremely difficult and fraught with grave international consequences, for it must be confessed, the worst offenders in the opium traffic are not the Chinese but unprincipled foreigners who flagrantly abuse the privileges endowed by extra-territoriality treaties.

Under these treaties certain areas are sacrosanct as far as the nation which is a party to the treaty with China is concerned, and if the nationals of that foreign country remain within their country's concession, then Chinese jurisdiction does not exist and they are immune from penalty. It was recently openly stated by a leading member of the Kuomintang that until this immunity from Chinese law within China itself was removed, then there would be but little chance of the National Government succeeding in its worthy aims.

BOXING CHALLENGES

Difficulties About Terms

(BY ROY MURRAY)

Following the success of the recent boxing tournament which was held at the Po Hing Theatre, Kowloon, last month, arrangements are now being made for the staging of another programme at the same place. The Hong Kong Boxing Promotion Syndicate aims to go one better than their recent venture, providing the challengers agree to the terms offered, which is most unlikely at this moment.

At present it is only possible to give a brief outline of the prospective programme, as arrangements are still proceeding between the promoters and the contestants. It will be remembered that Fusilier Fisher lifted Young Aromin's local featherweight title at the Po Hing Theatre last month, and Florencio Mac Siong, a Chinese rival from Manila, has now signed articles to meet the champion in a 15-3 minute round contest.

The challenger shows himself as a man of good reputation, and has quite a large following in the Philippines. A hitch has arisen, however, as the terms demanded by Fisher are considered too high by the Syndicate and some difficulty may be experienced to induce a promoter to agree. Mac Siong has agreed to fight Fisher under the terms proposed, and is now in training. If terms between Mac Siong and Fisher do not materialise, the Hong Kong Boxing Syndicate will make an effort to fix a bout between the former and Young Aromin.

WHELAN-OWENS AGAIN?

The Syndicate have also approached Fusilier Owens regarding a return bout with Bud Whelan. Owens has also stated that he will not meet Whelan under the same terms, and at present the argument goes on.

EXAMINATION CRITICISM

SCHOOL LEAVING CERTIFICATE

Speech Day At D.B.S.

Criticisms of the School Certificate Examination were made by the Rev. C.B.R. Sargent, M.A. Headmaster of the Diocesan Boys' School when presenting his report at the Annual Speech Day and Prize-Giving of the school yesterday afternoon.

The Headmaster remarked that it was very doubtful whether the standard of this new examination really constituted a satisfactory finishing point of a secondary education. "Further experience will enlighten us on this point, and remove our doubts," he said. "These certificates will therefore be very misleading when presented in other parts of China or elsewhere, and it will not be to Hong Kong's credit when it is discovered how low the standard is."

Mrs. N. L. Smith, the wife of His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government (Mr. N. L. Smith, C.M.G.), presented the prizes and sports trophies. His Excellency also attended and was accompanied by Captain G. F. Rickard, A.D.C.

An Autogiro In Malaya

The first Clerva autogiro to reach Malaya was recently shipped from England to Singapore by Mr. F. G. London, a well-known local architect. The aircraft is a model C.19 Mark IV fitted with an Armstrong Siddeley Gnat radial engine of 100/105 horse-power. Mr. London has been president of the Royal Singapore Flying Club for six years and took up flying at the relatively late age of 52.

Although primarily acquired for pleasure purposes, the aircraft should enable its owner to make visits of inspection to architectural and civil engineering works in which his firm is interested in various parts of the country.

The type was chosen because aerodromes and large clear spaces are comparatively few. The aircraft was assembled in Singapore by Mr. Harvey, Chief Engineer of the Royal Singapore Flying Club.

DIOCESAN BOYS' SCHOOL PRIZE GIVING

Prior to the prize-giving ceremony displays by the classes were on view, and the school magazine "Steps" and the Class 1 magazine "Wings" were on sale.

The band of the First Battalion, The Royal Ulster Rifles (by kind permission of Lieut. Col. R. M. Rodwell and Officers) rendered a very pleasant programme of music, while tea was served at 4.30 p.m.

Amongst those present on the platform were: The Bishop of Hong Kong and Mrs. Hall, Sir Henry and Lady Follock, The Director of Education, Rev. H. W. Baines, Rev. J. R. Higga, Rev. N. V. Halward, Hon. Mr. M. K. Lo, Mr. C. Blaker, Lt. Col. H. B. L. Dowling, Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall, Mr. George Shee.

Amongst those present were: Dr. and Mrs. Li Shu Fan, Dr. B. C. Wong, Dr. S. T. Wong, Sir W. W. Hornell, Mrs. K. H. Udey, Miss Atkins, Miss Dowling, Messrs. D. H. Blake, S. M. Churn, P. Corra, W. B. Finnigan, C. Y. Kwan, B. C. Randall, W. N. Thomas Tam, J. C. L. Wong, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. P. Heywood.

SCHOOL'S 70TH BIRTHDAY

Addressing the gathering the Bishop said:—

Within the next two years we shall celebrate the seventieth birthday of the school.

There can be few stories in the educational history of this Colony to compare with the story of the last five years of the Diocesan Boys' School. The achievement of the boys, the staff and the Headmaster and the loyal support of the Old Boys and of the School Council and the generous help of the Government, have been quite remarkable. But the question that really faces this Colony is this: Are you going to allow our seventieth birthday to pass without relieving us of the debt of $140,000 which we still owe on these school buildings?

On the ground, therefore, of the life-long residence as citizens and taxpayers in this Colony of so many of our students; on the ground, also, of the value of the Colony at large of the magnificent work which is being done by the Headmaster and staff of the school; and thirdly on the ground that the development of the grant-in-aid system is not only the most economic, but the most intelligent way of developing the educational work of this Colony, I take this opportunity of asking the Colony as a whole, and you, Sir, and your colleagues in Government who are present with us, whether it may not be possible to make the seventieth birthday of the school, but also in the history of the Government of this Colony; memorable for a governmental act which shows both an understanding of true economy in educational expenditure and a generosity to those who are, in their own home-born citizens.

HEADMASTER'S REPORT

The loyalty and reliability of our staff is amazing.

In particular the D.B.S. owes the deepest debt to Mr. Nash, who devoted himself heart and soul to the difficult and almost thankless position of acting headmaster last year (applause)—not quite thankful because I do thank him now, for his unstinting efforts for the ease of mind in which, thanks to him, I could enjoy my holiday, and for the improvements effected by him in directions which my negligence had left untouched.

Whatever else is left out in this report, I cannot possibly fail to refer to the Old Boys, whose Association is becoming ever more vigorous.

NEW EXAMINATION

One of the biggest changes in the past year has been an external one, the introduction of a new public examination for Class 2, called the School Certificate examination. This is conducted by the Education department, and if I may say so without presumption, the organization has been admirably smooth and efficient. Incidentally this is only one of several directions in which the department has added to its labours on behalf of this school, and we are most grateful for the noble efforts of those officials on whose shoulders all this burden has fallen.

This new Class 2 examination more or less replaces the old Junior Local, which was only given up, presumably for good reasons, three years ago. It is surprising therefore and perhaps regrettable that policy should be changed again so very soon.

The present Class 1 examination held this year for the third time was just getting into its stride, and now it will be dropped. During my six summers in Hong Kong only two have had the same external arrangements and these changes of policy are very unsettling.

AN ANOMALY

The new examination was handicapped this year by the very sudden and unexpected method of its introduction, after the year's work had already been planned and text books ordered, some of which had to be subsequently changed.

This suddenness also meant that there were bound to be flaws in the scheme, which will doubtless disappear as it is modified in the light of experience.

For example it is now possible for two boys to take exactly the same subjects and get exactly the same marks in every paper, yet for one boy to pass with honours and the other to fail. Something is wrong somewhere for this to be possible!

The syllabus would be educationally far sounder if the complicated system of groups and optional subjects which made this anomaly possible were dropped, and something much simpler substituted.

It should also not try to cover so much ground in most of the subjects, but to cover it far more thoroughly. This is better education in itself and also leads to a far more fruitful year's work in Class 1.

These opinions are so general among the schools in Hong Kong, for whom the examination is intended, that surely such modifications as I have suggested will very soon be made and the value of the examination and all the work of arranging it be vastly increased.

STANDARD DOUBTFUL

Many of us are inclined to question the wisdom of the title, School Certificate.

It is very doubtful whether its standard really constitutes a satisfactory finishing point of a secondary education, though further experience will enlighten us on this point, and may remove our doubts.

The name is also unfortunate because the phrase School Certificate denotes a widely accepted standard well in advance of that of Class 2, which is far short of University entrance. These certificates will therefore be very misleading when presented in other parts of China or elsewhere, and it will not be to Hong Kong's credit when it is discovered how low the standard is. The old name, Junior Local, would be far better understood and would not, as School Certificate does, suggest a higher standard than it really represents.

I hope that I do not appear discourteous in making these criticisms in the presence of those of our welcome and honoured guests who are members of the Government responsible for the examination. You will I am sure see that the criticisms made are constructive, and are put forward with the desire to help, not hinder. Only one of the faults referred to is not remediable, and that is the unfortunate method of launching the examination for its first appearance. We and all the schools wish it a good future and hope it will prove a real boon to our students.

MONTHLY REPORTS

Probably the most important innovation of the past year internally has been the introduction of a system of monthly reports. A great deal of extra work is entailed in preparing these, but it will be well worth while if parents and guardians are kept in closer touch with a boy's progress and some extra stimulus is provided.

Among other ways in which we need your help is by encouraging your sons to speak and use their English at home and among their friends as much as possible. However hard we try we cannot teach fluent English if Chinese is the invariable language out of class.

HEALTH

In matters concerning health, plenty of fresh air and sleep, suitable food, not too many cinemas are among the things which all parents can ensure for their children.

Here I feel bound to express my very strong conviction that constipation is at the root of many a boy's trouble, often causing a sleepy torpor which prevents good work, as well as various other physical evils.

In matters of health we ourselves are doing more than before, and among recent additions in this direction is the introduction of physical training into the curriculum, and the eye examination of all new boys.

Complainant In Traffic Case

Captain B. J. Rimmer, of the Royal Ulster Rifles, appeared as complainant at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday when Choi Hoksang, a private car driver, was summoned for driving without due care and caution, following a traffic accident which occurred shortly after 3 p.m. on June 9 near Homumtin Street.

In giving evidence, Capt. Rimmer said that as he was coming down Homumtin Street, turning into Waterloo Road, a big car, driven by defendant, turned into Homumtin Street cutting the corner within a yard of the right side of the road. Witness said to avoid a collision he had to turn slightly into the right. with Mr. N. L. Cape Town, S.A.

Kalzana is a remarkable food containing no drugs whatsoever.

In hot countries one's diet and the extent to which one perspires tend to decrease the mineral contents of the body. Many complaints such as irritability, high blood pressure, dizziness, acidity, which are so often ascribed to "the climate" are due largely to this loss of minerals.

When you do not feel as well as you should, start taking Kalzana tablets. They will soon put you right.

THE MONASTIC IDEAL

(BY SCRUTATOR)

"So much then for our historical review of the four stages in the development of the monastery: the Puritan Spirit, leading to escape and renunciation, and thereafter an organised life in a community separated from the world, but so prone to decline into worldliness that at last it became but another of the proud competing systems of men, destined to go down before stronger forces. Now let us examine the "Monastic Ideal" itself.

A monk, as different from others, was called a "religiosus" a "religious." "Religious" means bound. The monk was bound by his vow—bound to a certain kind of life, bound to separation from the world.

But in what sense was he to be separated from the world? For on the one hand there are good men and women living in the very thick of the world's activities whose hearts are yet not of the world. And on the other hand there has been many a hermit who buried himself far beyond the reach of men, spending meatless days and sleepless nights in an agony of prayer, without killing the worldliness in his heart—the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life. The very reason why the monastic system decayed when it did, was that for all its separateness, it had become worldly. Men cannot escape from their lower selves by changing their address. Nor can a system be sanctified merely by walling itself in.

The Lure of the World

"If any man love the world," said Saint John, "the love of the Father is not in him." And the good monk had a worthy Puritanical scorn for everything which was liable to tempt him, until all that was associated with the world became anathema to him. But the trouble was that on the whole the monk was more aware of that which he sought to escape than of the service which he was called to render. He often escaped from the world; but he did not always find refuge in the abundant life of Christ.

We read in the records of the hermits of a thousand pathetic stories of men running away to hiding-places to evade the world, yet never evading it because they still carried it with them—the gangrene of it in their hearts and minds. As long as that was unreckoned with, the strategy of escape drove men further and further away from the life of the world, and at the same time, gave them over more and more to the torment of their unalloyed cravings. The world from which they needed to escape was not the state, or the church, or things, or people, in which they saw evil, but wrong desires in themselves by which they were drawn in wrong ways. One monk gained an outstanding reputation for purity for because at the sight of a woman on the road, "he dashed back to his monastery with greater speed than a man would flee from a lion or a dragon." But we would say to-day that it was not purity, but much more probably the opposite, which impelled him to do that.

As long as men failed to destroy the worldliness residing in their own hearts they went on shutting out one good thing after another, according as they were tempted by them—government and civic responsibility, domestic affairs, the interests of other men and women, church obligations, as in all these they saw enemies of the soul. Even their own bodies became in their own eyes horribly hostile, to what they thought goodness was, until, abhorring themselves, torturing themselves, many of the early hermits were no use at all for anything which you and I would call "life."

The Pressure of the World

We all probably agree that in his attitude to the Lure of the World the monk was wrong, for he did not solve his problem by running away from the scene of it. But when we come to the Pressure of the World, the "care of the world" of which Jesus speaks, we find that the monk has more to teach us.

Jesus said, "Take no thought for the morrow." Yet all down the years, and especially in these days, we find the world frenzied with care on its own account. "Getting and spending we lay waste our powers." The danger is that men before even they have begun to "live" should fritter away a whole lifetime in keeping the wheels going round, and all for the want of that detachment in which alone true life is nourished. "Depart from the highway and transplant thyself in some enclosed ground," said Chrysostom. "For it is hard for a tree which stands by the wayside to keep her fruit till it is ripe." Our duty to men is more than doing. There is a duty of being. And for that, we must release ourselves from the world which will not let us be.

We shall do well to keep the example of the monk before us as civilization daily claims more and more of men. The monk took thought to come apart and answer the call. He took time to prepare his heart and mind in the presence of God—and the world will ever be indebted to those great teachers in the devotional life whose quiet and whose discipline might never have been achieved outside the monastic system. And he took pains to study by what means he might approve himself to God, and in what way his own peculiar faculties might be consecrated to holy service.

Not all the meetings in the world, not all the good government, not all the soundest Church organisation, can safeguard the noblest things of the spirit unless each man for himself, men come apart from the world in silence and prayer, in study and self-discipline, to be. The work of the world is being done more easily and more quickly every day—that fact stares us in the face when we remember how many millions of men and women have too much time on their hands. All the recreation a man needs can for the most part be very easily attained. But while increasing provision is made for us in external things, and comforts multiply, luxury begetting luxury, the things of the spirit still cost as much as ever they did.

If any man is to give anything at all to the world, say, in music, or poetry, or art, or preaching, or scientific knowledge, then he must come apart from the multitude and prepare himself strenuously: he must be alone with God. And surely the spiritual life of any man calls for no less reverent and purposeful culture. The spirit of man is the candle of the Lord.

"For every hour one speaks," says a modern writer, "he should read two hours, and meditate three hours." We many not have monastic buildings or vows to hold us to that way, but for every man there is the monastery of the mind and heart, where he may retreat as often as he will, to find out what he is in the mind of God, and what God would have him be. We can bring nothing of worth into the life of men without high spiritual purpose, and real unrelenting discipline of our own spirits.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LESSON SERMON

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST.

Subject: Sacrament

The subject of the Lesson Sermon in all churches of Christ, Scientist, to-morrow, July 11, will be:—"Sacrament."

The Golden Text will be: "What are these which are arrayed in white robes? and whence came they? . . . These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb." (Rev. 7: 13, 14).

Among others, the following citations from the Bible will be read: "Blessed are the poor in spirit; for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are they that mourn; for they shall be comforted. Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled. Blessed are the pure in heart; for they shall see God." Matt. 5: 3, 4, 6, 8.

The Lesson Sermon will also include the following passages from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christian Science demonstrates that none but the pure in heart can see God, as the gospel teaches. In proportion to his purity is man perfect; and perfection is the order of celestial being which demonstrates Life in Christ. Life's spiritual ideal. It is the living Christ, the practical truth, which makes Jesus 'the resurrection and the life' to all who follow him in deed. Obeying his precious precepts,—following his demonstration as far as we apprehend it,—we drink of his cup; partake of his bread, are baptised with his purity; and at last we shall rest, sit down with him, in a full understanding of the divine Principle which triumphs over death." (Pages 336, 31).

TO GET RID OF STOMACH TROUBLES

An English Doctor writes:—

"I find that 'Bisurated' Magnesia taken after meals is the only thing that helps me free from pain and discomfort, and I take it regularly. I often prescribe it for my patients, and have had very good results."

(Signed) Dr. H. G. M.A., M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P.

THE English doctor is the most conservative medical man in the world, and when he not only recommends but personally uses a remedy there can be no more convincing proof of its efficacy. This doctor is but one of many who constantly advise the use of "Bisurated" Magnesia in all cases of indigestion. Most stomach trouble is caused by acidity, and the reason why "Bisurated" Magnesia gives quick relief is that it instantly neutralises excess acid and soothes, heals and strengthens the inflamed stomach lining. Nothing could be simpler, safer or surer. If you suffer with indigestion or stomach disorder of any kind put your faith in European science and make an end of your troubles by taking "Bisurated" Magnesia after eating or whenever pain is felt.

MAYTIME

The Russian composer, Tchaikovsky, long dead, took on new life recently on a studio sound stage when a spectacular opera, composed by him (although in his lifetime he never dreamed of operatic composition) was unfolded before the microphone.

This was "Czaritzin," a dramatic grand opera the music of which was entirely taken from Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony. Herbert Stothart, composer and conductor, arranged it and recorded it as an operatic interlude for Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy in "Maytime," which comes to the Majestic Theatre to-day.

QUALITY STREET

In a role peculiarly suited to her gifts, Miss Hepburn portrays a vivacious English girl of the early nineteenth century who suppresses a burning romantic spark for years while the man she loves is away warring against Napoleon. When he returns and she believes he has lost interest in her, it presents a dramatic situation that calls forth all of her talents. Sharing honours with Miss Hepburn, Franchot Tone has the role of a brilliant young doctor and soldier. He plays both comedy and drama with subtlety and is the convincing eligible bachelor that most girls dream about. "Quality Street" has its showing at the Queen's Theatre to-day.

NIGHT MUST FALL

Something decidedly new comes to the screen of the King's Theatre to-day in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Night Must Fall" with Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell. Skillfully directed by Richard Thorpe, this daring story presents an entirely new technique for crime fiction on the screen. Without the element of mystery, the story introduces a pathological killer whose mission is known to the audience before he starts to act. Montgomery chose deliberately to step from heroic roles to this peculiarly difficult characterization. He saw the London stage play and urged M-G-M to buy it so that he might play the killer role. His justification was evident in the enthusiasm of the audience, which thrilled to the unique story.

AS GOOD AS MARRIED

When a secretary marries her boss these days it's no longer news; but when she marries him just to help him save on his income tax, that's something else. And that's just what happens in Universal's "As Good As Married," which opens at the Alhambra Theatre to-day. Glamorous Doris Nolan, playing the secretary to architect John Boles, accepts his proposal of marriage, though she knows it is purely a business arrangement. What happens makes for the most delightful picture of the season!

UNDER THE RED ROBE

The intrigue of "Richelleu!" The romance of "The Three Musketeers!" These, and all the thrills of those adventurous days when men dared all for love, live again in "Under the Red Robe," the swash-buckling romance starring Conrad Veidt and Annabella, which opens at the Queen's Theatre to-morrow.

In this tale of scarlet intrigue that threatens a throne, Conrad Veidt, acclaimed as one of the greatest actors Europe ever produced, plays the dashing, audacious adventurer, Gil de Berault, whose sword strikes terror to the hearts of men, and whose smile brings love to the hearts of women.

John Boles interrupts Walter Pidgeon and Doris Nolan at an awkward moment in Universal's "As Good As Married"

DONALD CALTHROP BOUND OVER

Trouble Due To Drink

Donald Calthrop, aged 49, the actor, of Carshalton, Surrey, was placed on probation for 12 months by Mr. Fry at Bow-street Police Court on a charge of obtaining £22 with a worthless cheque at the New Haymarket Club, Shaftesbury-avenue, W. Three other cases were taken into consideration. Detective Sergeant Hodge said that Calthrop incurred a debt of £3 at his lodgings in Catherine-street and left without paying. At the Berkeley Hotel he had a meal costing 18s. He tendered a worthless cheque for £10 and received the change. Between May 15 he stayed at the Royal Albion Hotel, Brighton, and again paid with a worthless cheque for £10, receiving £18 change. For 31 years he had been on the stage and had appeared in leading films, said the officer, but since December he had been unable to get work; and from that time had been continually drinking. He had travelled in the South of England and left a trail of debts. He had earned a good income, but he was absolutely irresponsible where money was concerned. Calthrop's son told the magistrate that he was not aware of his father's debts, but they would be paid. Asked if he wished to say anything, Calthrop replied, "I have nothing to say except I am sorry." Mr. Fry said that if Calthrop had not taken to excessive drinking he would not have done what he had. It was a lamentable state of affairs. No doubt Calthrop would be willing to go into a home for treatment for drunkenness.

INTERIOR DECORATIONS

A new kind of interior decoration for house or flat is in vogue in London, which calls for the services of the scenic artist. The latest idea is to devote the whole side of a room to a scenic picture, painted on the walls in soft but clear colours. Sometimes a landscape scene is painted with a background of misty hills. Others choose a woodland scene, with falling autumn leaves, or a spring scene of silver birch trees and bluebells. The famous shipping magnate, Lord Inchcape, has his study decorated with a marvellous seascape, a wide expanse of sea and sky and "tempera frescoes" of sailing ships of Elizabethan days give life to the scene. This wall decoration fills the whole of one side of his study. The scheme is carried out with curtains and chair covers which harmonize with the colouring of these ships, and the lampshades are also adorned with stencilled ships of the same period.

GRACIE FIELDS OPENS A CHURCH

Miss Gracie Fields visited Squirrels Gate Cap, Blackpool, to open a church for holiday makers. She told the crowd of several thousands around her and the Bishop of Blackburn, Dr. P. M. Herbert, "I love to make people laugh. God gave me wonderful gifts and as long as I can use them I shall go on entertaining folks. There is far too little laughter in the world and if I can make any more that is my job."

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY

Encouraged by the very great success of their last production, "The Street Singer," the Hong Kong Philharmonic have already made their plans for the forthcoming season. The following communication has just been received from the Secretary of the Society. "Dear Sir or Madam, I am pleased to be able to inform you that the Committee have decided to proceed with arrangements for producing "The Arcadians" during the week ending 18th December, 1937, under the direction of W. Robertson, Esq., as Honorary Producer and Lindsay A. Lafford, F.R.C.O., L.R.M.A., A.R.C.M., as Honorary Conductor. The first rehearsal has been fixed for 5.30 p.m. on Monday, 30th August, at the Cathedral Hall this, however, will be confirmed at a later date.

D. KOSSICK, Hon. Secretary.
BRIGHT AND CHARMING
This is very good news and it is doubtful if the Society could possibly have made a better choice. "The Arcadians" is a bright and charming play with a most amusing plot and very gay and sparkling music. It contains not one good part but many, and will give scope to some of Hong Kong's popular amateur singers and comedians.

ENGLISH AND SLANG

Differences of opinion in the scholastic sphere rarely stir the world outside the school walls. There will, however, be general interest in the debate on school-girls' English which arose out of Miss Gwynn's chance use of American slang by one of the delegates at the Headmistresses' Conference held in Brighton recently.

The question touches almost every home. Few of us have escaped some "debunking" at the lips of the young people of our acquaintance. Even fewer can claim never to have been told that some proposal was "O.K."

Our ancestors would have dealt promptly and unanimously with such strange outpourings from the "well of English undefiled"; and their comments on a headmistress who allowed her girls to "debunk" would have been sharp. To-day we are less certain of ourselves.

Without the Headmistresses' Conference, as well as within, there will be many who rise to praise American slang and as many who rise to blame.

A new word is justified every time it expresses an idea for which no word presently exists; and by this test many of the imported American words must stand. How, otherwise than by "debunking," could we express the sentiment of that particular word? Or what substitute can we offer for "high-brow"? "Intellectual snob" is our best, and that is both longer and inexact. And what word can be more expressive than "mugwump," even though we use it in a very different sense from that the dictionary gives it?

Not only the English language, but we ourselves, have grown richer by the importation of such words as these. We would, however, add two cautions to our approval of them. First, as to the words themselves, we should distinguish carefully between those which express a new idea and those which are mere distortions of words already current.

A Mosaic Of Books

BY

'The Science Of Social Adjustment'

By Sir Josiah Stamp, G. C. B., G. B. E., F. R. A., (Macmillan 7/6).

Advising that research should be directed to the ways in which society does, and can, and should, adapt itself to technical changes, Sir Josiah seeks to assure his fellow directors of our industrialised society, that you can have real social change without changing anything. To satisfy intensely dissatisfied persons requires only a few small readjustments. His chapters are so carefully guarded that they have little meaning.

EASY AND EVASIVE

For those who do not share Sir Josiah's complacency with capitalist society, his proposals are too easy to be useful, so evasive that they are futile. He suggests that research workers should be turned from the physical sciences, to compile harmless statistics about education, psychology, heredity, genetics, and eugenics. But why they are to make these compilations he fails to make clear. Indeed, unknown to Sir Josiah he is advising a procedure which may prove destructive to his complacency. The true scientist, the man of integrity, always goes to the heart of things. The scientist who goes to the heart of the sociological problem will not be content with a few minor "adjustments."

DIPLOMATIC VACUITY

Sociology needs its truly scientific men, who will engage themselves by seeking out the root causes of waste, confusion, and destructive corruption in our society, and it does not need any prophetic foresight to be certain that they will not rest content with Sir Josiah's statistical accumulations. This fairly lengthy book makes no real contribution to the "Science of Social Adjustment," but as an example of how to say practically nothing, at considerable length, and to say it in a really finished after-dinner style, it is well worth reading.

'The Destiny Of Man'

Nicolas Berdyaev, Translated from the Russian by Natalie Dudington, (Bles 16/-).

Here is a book to be read and pondered. Christian thought, Berdyaev asserts, does face the human problem and confesses what a paradoxical creature is man. His tragedy is not merely a struggle between good and evil, but something deeper still—a conflict between values which are equally good. With this statement every living-thinking man can agree, and in this book Berdyaev develops the theme in a better, richer, and greater way than any other book I have ever read. It has always seemed sinister to me that Marxism is so blind to the necessity, of the Christian understanding of man; without that understanding it degenerates into mere secular optimism and absolutism.

SOCIAL COURAGE

Berdyaev, however, insists that the Christian, understanding that man involves supernaturalism. For myself I have never felt this necessity. William Blake's conception of the Divine-Humanity, is in this respect superior to Berdyaev's development of Russian orthodoxy. But if the theology of Berdyaev proves to be able to fructify through its association with the imaginative Christianity of Blake, the barren wastes of Anglican Theology, it will be an inestimable blessing.

Like Blake, Berdyaev has a magnificent social courage. Writing of Christianity and Marriage, he states:

'Sugar In The Air'

By E. C. Large, (Cape 7/6)

This is a novel which even people who seldom read contemporary fiction can read and enjoy from start to finish. It belongs to the same order as "Tono-Bungay," and is nearly as good. That one can say this of "Sugar in the Air" is a great tribute to Mr. Large's novel.

Early One Morning

Now and then, and especially at the beginning of the summer holidays, when the longest days always seemed to finish too soon, John and I would, on going to bed, sometimes decide that we were going to get up early.

Sometimes, even six in the morning was not early enough for our overnight ambitions, and then we had a special method of making sure that we would wake at the proper time. When we were ready to blow out the candle, we would tell each other exactly how early we meant to be. Four o'clock or five o'clock? Say, five o'clock for to-morrow. Then two entirely serious little boys would bang their heads hard five times against the wooden wall, blow out the candle, and go to sleep talking. Punctually at five, we knew, we should wake, and we did.

About the sunlight in the morning I used to notice a stillness and secrecy all its own. Our room, at the time I am remembering, had only one window, and the view from that was entirely of roofs. The sky was clear and pale like pearl over these roofs. A starling sat on the nursery ridge, oily and frackled with silver in the sunlight, his feathers ruffled into points and ragged with bodily joy, and his whole being concentrated on quips and claps and hisses and long human whistles. The garden too, though not seen from the window while I was dressing, was very noisy with cheeps and chat-

terings of sparrows. It seemed so necessary to be quiet and quick that I scamped washing for fear of ringing the tin basin, and hastily pulling my jersey over my ears, and carrying my boots in my hand, I went out (John still asleep there) into a house where nobody else was awake. The stairs and passages lit by an unappreciated daylight, all seemed to breathe and stir with a silence entirely different from the silence of a dark night, and far more active on its own account than the silence of an empty house. The change from the confined and used-up air of the night into the dewy and sun-tingling air outside was as keen to my senses as a plunge into cold water. I took care to shut and latch the back door without a click, and then I climbed into the garden by the nearest way, and eating my sugared bread, stood for a moment overwhelmed by the riches which I had stolen from sleep. There was no whim but mine to consult; all laws of daylight were here and my own. The birds were certainly tamer and more numerous. Sparrows squabbled almost at my feet; for they were all accustomed to an early morning licence, as if the world were theirs before six by a law of Nature and time, without fear of disturbance. They did not quite believe in me, certainly they allowed me to come near to them—much nearer than in later hours—Frank Kendon, in "The Small Years," (London: Cambridge University Press.)

CLAIM AGAINST LORRY DRIVER

Judgment Delivered—Labour Conditions

Judgment was given by the Pulme Judge, Mr. Justice R. E. Lindell, at the Summary Court yesterday with regard to the legal arguments in the case in which Lai Kwong Kong (plaintiff), of No. 145 Shanghai Street, second floor, Kowloon, claimed $300 as damages for injuries received and expenses incurred, when he was knocked down by a motor lorry alleged to have been negligently driven by defendant's agent (Cheung On) on February 7, 1937, near the Jubilee Street ferry wharf.

It will be recalled that when the case was last heard on June 3, judgment was given for defendant with costs, stay of execution for 14 days, and liberty to plaintiff to apply to re-open within the same period.

His lordship said: "This is an action for damages in respect of injuries incurred by the plaintiff through the negligence of the defendant's servant when driving a lorry on February 17, 1937."

"The question of negligence has not yet been determined, but for the defendants it is submitted that the claim is barred under Sub-Section (2) of Section 6 of the Vehicles and Traffic Regulation Ordinance, 1912, because compensation awarded to the plaintiff by a Magistrate under Sub-Section 1 of that Section in respect of the same injuries has been duly paid."

"For the plaintiff it is contended that such payment was not duly made since it was not made in accordance with the terms of the Magistrate's original order which alone the plaintiff consented."

FACTS OUTLINED

"The facts are shortly as follows:—"

"On February 17, 1937, one Cheung On, the defendant's lorry driver, knocked down and injured the plaintiff herein, Lai Kong, on Connaught Road Central."

"On March 19, Cheung On by a representative appeared before the First Police Magistrate to answer a summons taken out by the Police under No. 44 of the Regulations made under Section 3 of the Vehicles and Traffic Regulation Ordinance, 1912, and charging him with driving to the danger of the public on February 17."

"To this charge the representative pleaded guilty, and according to the copy of the Magistrate's record Lai Kwong, who was the principal witness for the prosecution, then asked for compensation."

"The Magistrate fined Cheung On $25, and awarded Lai Kong $50 compensation, ordering that $10 should be paid forthwith and the balance ($40) on March 23."

"Lai Kong admits that he consented to this award in this form, but I am satisfied that he did not realise that such consent might deprive him from taking any further proceedings in respect of the damage and loss that his injuries had cost him."

'SILENT ORDER'

Mr. Justice Lindell further said: "It is not necessary for me to determine the further point whether or no payment into Court was sufficient performance of the Magistrate's order. Here the Magistrate's order was silent as to whether payment was to be made direct to Lai Kong or into Court and there is no evidence, before me as to which method of payment is usual or what Lai Kong understood to be the effect of the order in this respect. Had he been given to understand that the payment would be made to him direct he might, I think, have succeeded on this head also."

"My judgment of June 3, 1937, non-suited the plaintiff, must therefore be set aside and the trial will be resumed as if such non-suit had not been entered."

Continuing, His Lordship said: "In view of what has happened in the present case, one further word of warning is I think necessary. In awarding compensation in a case of this sort a Magistrate should in my view specify exactly how the compensation is to be paid, whether into Court or to the injured party personally, and once the form of the award has been determined no variation therefrom should be allowed except with the consent of the person in whose favour the award was made."

The hearing of the case was fixed for trial on August 5 at 2.30 p.m.

C.M.A. PICNIC

MALAYAN REVIEW

Labour Conditions

Are labour conditions in Malaya up to the standard? Do labourers get what they call "fair treatment"? These are the questions which serious-thinking people often ask in view of the frequency of strikes throughout Malaya during the past two years.

It is significant that the industrial unrest has not been confined to any one particular community. The Chinese as well as the Indian labourers have been equally restive. Big organisations as well as small enterprises have been equally affected.

According to the report of Mr. A. B. Jordan, the Secretary for Chinese Affairs, the recent incidence of strikes is attributed to the fact that Chinese labourers are becoming more enlightened as to the trend of existing conditions, that newspaper accounts of stay-in strikes in France and elsewhere have influenced their industrial outlook, and that, last but not least, communistic agitations have played an important part in fermenting discontent among the rank and file.

A Sliding Scale

As suggestion to avoid future disputes in the rubber industry, the report states, "It may be possible for planters to negotiate contracts with tapping contractors providing for remuneration on a sliding scale varying with the monthly average market price of rubber. Such a contract would be beneficial to both parties."

Such a scheme might do something to eliminate disputes, which have a direct bearing on the question of wages; but at the same time it must not be forgotten that the under-current which is at work among the labourers has a greater claim on our attention than the strike itself. If we eradicate the effect only, the cause still remains to give us future trouble, but if the cause is removed, there will be no undesirable effects in the future.

Smuggling

One of the objections to restriction schemes in industry is that they tend to promote lawlessness. Potential smugglers are likely to discover that it is possible to evade the authorities and make nefarious profits.

It was often contended that the Stevenson scheme of rubber restriction had precisely this effect, cargoes of rubber being smuggled into Malaya from foreign territory. The fact that the present scheme is international has to a large extent nullified this objection so far as Malaya is concerned.

In Siam, however, the position is different. A writer in the Bangkok Times recently stated: "There is a good deal of smuggling of one sort or another going on in Siam to-day if stories which reach Bangkok from the north and south are only half true. Only last month at a place seventy miles from Mergui a smugglers' stronghold, guarded by spies on a hill, was found, and an official seized about four tons of tin ore. Influential persons were involved in this smuggling, and other seizures are anticipated."

F.M.S. Budget

The determination of the Federated Malay States Government to build up a substantial surplus is being pursued with a zeal worthy of a better cause. The latest revenue figures for the first three months of the current year show an excess of income over expenditure of nearly $10,000,000 and the estimated surplus for the whole year is only $4,000,000. This position is attributed to the fact that the rubber and tin duties have far exceeded the optimism of those who drew up the estimates, while Customs revenue is also up and there is a marked increase in the revenue derived from land rents. To estimate for a surplus for the whole year of $4,000,000 and have $10,000,000 in hand at the end of the first quarter shows that the business of estimating the Budget of the Federated Malay States has been reduced to a farce.

Interesting Gift To Museum

One of the most valuable and interesting gifts to Raffles Museum has been made by Dato Roland Braddell. It comprises 15 beautiful colour prints of Singapore, Malacca, and Penang, showing the Crown Colony in its very early days, 1844 to 1847. The former date is of especial interest as it depicts the town of Singapore as Dato Braddell's grandfather knew it when he arrived. The pictures are by two French artists, M. Launvergne and M. Fiquet, and as works of art, they are exquisite. They have hitherto been unknown and unpublished, and are in extremely pleasing colours and very well drawn. The main interest of the pictures, apart from their artistic excellence, is that they give a clear insight into the appearance of the early Settlements and the social life of its inhabitants, and they throw light on hitherto unknown details of local history. The gems of the collection are a picture of Singapore and two of Malacca.

HOME CRICKET RESULTS

London, July 8.

Sussex continued to retain their grip on the county cricket leadership, winning to-day against Worcestershire by nine wickets. It was a remarkable match, and provided one of the most sensational finishes of the season. Worcester batted first and completed 205, Sussex were then dismissed for 92, Perks taking seven wickets for 42 runs.

Worcester, however, fared ill in their second knock and were sent back for 125, Tuplin securing 5 for 30.

Thus Sussex were set to score 239 for a win. These runs they obtained for the loss of one wicket, John Langridge playing a fine innings of 140 not out.—Reuter

OBSTRUCTION FINES

Miss R. Mow Fung, F. Wilkinson and G. Rapp, were each fined $5 by Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, when they were summoned for obstruction by leaving their motor cars in Balgon Street near Chi Wo Street on June 20.

R. K. Collins and Lindman, were each fined $3 for obstruction by parking their motor vehicles inside a bend at Castle Peak Road in the afternoon of June 19. Defendants pleaded guilty to the offence before Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday.

CREW WHO WOULD NOT GO TO SPAIN

An appeal by 17 members of the crew of the North-Shields steamer Linaria against the decision of the Liverpool Stipendiary Magistrate convicting them of impeding the navigation of the ship, was allowed, with costs, by the Recorder (Mr. E. G. Hemmerde, K.C.) at Liverpool.

They were alleged to have refused to sail the Linaria because she was to take on a cargo of nitrate for Spain.

Mr. Maxwell Fyfe, K.C. (for the respondents) said that one of the members of the crew told the captain that they would not be parties to killing women and children in Spain. The men were discharged, and for each day they refused to work, except Sunday, they were each fined $5.

Mr. Hemmerde said that the January agreement of the National Maritime Board, did not prevent a crew in a foreign port saying, "We are not going to Spain, though we agree that the terms you offer fair and proper." In his judgment the real question was whether the captain had a right, on behalf of the owners, to tell the men that they had to take the ship to Spain. The men had a right to refuse on the ground that it was something outside the scope of their original agreement.

NON-INTERVENTION COMMITTEE MEETING

Lord Plymouth

BREAKDOWN NOT AN IMPOSSIBILITY

London, July 9. The full Non-Intervention Committee assembled at the Foreign Office this morning for the first time since June 18. Members have before them two sets of proposals—the Anglo-French scheme rejected by Germany and Italy and the Anglo-French scheme rejected by Germany and Italy and the Anglo-French scheme rejected by Germany and Italy.

Britain and France have made it known that neither has any intention of putting forward fresh proposals but all four principal powers have declared their desire that the principle and practice of non-intervention should be continued and improved and therefore although a breakdown is not an impossibility the general impression is that efforts will be made to continue the search for an agreement acceptable in principle. Meanwhile a press interview was published this morning with General Franco in which the insurgent leader while persisting in his demand for belligerent rights refuses to consider the withdrawal of foreign volunteers engaged in Spain which adds an unhelpful factor to the problem. The non-intervention meeting is still proceeding.

There were three starters: four lengths separated Pascal and Aldine, the same between the latter and Golden Ramesses.

SCOUTING ACHIEVEMENTS

To celebrate the 30th anniversary of the foundation of the Scout Movement and to coincide with the Fifth World Jamboree, to be held in Holland this summer, a book has been published recording the achievements of this world-wide league of youth. It is entitled "Scouting Achievements" and is published by Putnam, Ltd. at 8/6. The author is Beresford Webb, Editor of "The Scouter" and "The Rover World."

There is a chapter devoted to Scouts' work in the preservation of the countryside and another account of Scout explorers.

Perhaps one of the most interesting chapters relates the birth of Scouting in many countries of the world, of that good turn by a London boy which gave Scouting to the United States.

It is a mighty travel book, taking its readers into all parts of the world and every page is a monument to the work of one of the best loved men in the world—Lord Baden-Powell.

GERMAN-ITALIAN POLICY CRITICISED BY RUSSIAN AMBASSADOR

EFFECTIVE SEA CONTROL MOST ESSENTIAL

Support For German-Italo Proposals

LONDON, JULY 9. THE FRENCH THREAT TO SUPPRESS CONTROL ALONG THE PYRENEES FRONTIER SHOULD PORTUGAL NOT RE-ESTABLISH CONTROL ALONG HER SPANISH BORDER BY THE BEGINNING OF NEXT WEEK WAS THE PRINCIPAL EVENT IN THIS MORNING'S SITTING OF THE FULL NON-INTERVENTION COMMITTEE. THE DISCUSSION OPENED WITH A SHORT SPEECH BY THE CHAIRMAN, LORD FLYMOUTH, WHEREUPON THE ITALIAN AMBASSADOR, COUNT GRANDI, MADE A NEW LONG EXPOSE OF THE GERMAN-ITALIAN PROPOSALS FOR RENDERING NON-INTERVENTION MORE EFFECTIVE.

SEA CONTROL

The French Ambassador, M. Corbin, after announcing the French Government's decision regarding the control on the Pyrenees frontier went on to say that without effective sea control the continued existence of the Non-Intervention Committee would be jeopardised. M. Corbin also declared his readiness to consider other suggestions.

After the Portuguese representative had expressed support of the Italo-German proposals, the Soviet Russian Ambassador, M. Maisky, strongly criticised the policy of Germany and Italy, to which criticism the German Ambassador, Herr von Ribbentrop, replied, recalling the assistance invariably given the Spanish Bolshevik by the Soviet Russia ever since the outbreak of the Spanish Civil War.

The Committee's afternoon sitting was timed to commence at 4 o'clock.—Transocean News Service.

BROADCAST BY LORD PEEL

ON PALESTINE REPORT

"Both Sides Must Make Sacrifices"

London, July 9. The report of the Royal Commission on Palestine will probably be debated in both Houses of Parliament prior to being laid before the Permanent Mandates Commission in Geneva at the end of the month. Present indications are that the majority of members in Commons will support the plan for the partition of Palestine as the only practicable solution of the problem although details of the scheme will doubtless be keenly debated.

Lord Peel, Chairman of the Commission in a broadcast last night asked the Arabs and Jews to study the report in a spirit of goodwill and to recognise that the Commission had striven faithfully without fear of favour "to bring healing to those deep-seated discords and those rivalries and ambitions which should be so alien to the spirit of the Holy Land."

He added "we tried hard to discover remedies within the scope of the mandate but were forced to the conviction that our suggestions did not touch the root of evil and that the mandate itself must be revised or abandoned and a new scheme of Government set up. Both sides must make sacrifices but to both great rewards are open."

KEEN DISAPPOINTMENT

Jerusalem, July 9. Both Arabs and Jews express very keen disappointment concerning the Palestine Commission Report.

A manifesto declaring that the Jewish state is being created from the most fertile part of the country has been issued by the Arab Higher Committee and this calls on the Arabs to adhere to the nationalist programme and to maintain self-restraint.

The feeling among the Jews is that their area is the smallest and they are not willing to lose the uncultivated but potentially fertile southern region.

British observers do not anticipate outbreaks of violence and are of the belief that the next will be one of political bargaining.

NO DECISION ON MAIN POINT OF ISSUE

London, July 9. The Non-Intervention Committee sat two hours and three quarters before adjourning until the afternoon. No decision was taken on the main point of issue and none is expected to-day. The morning was devoted to the statement of views previously submitted before the sub-committee. It is believed M. Corbin stressed the French Government's opinion that the continuance of a gap in the naval control scheme could not be tolerated much longer and suggested that France might feel obliged to suspend international observers on the Pyrenees frontier if the gaps were not filled and the British observers remained suspended on the Portuguese frontier.

Germany and Italy readvocate the granting of belligerent rights. While retaining the remainder of Non-Intervention control scheme the Portuguese Ambassador declared that Portugal supported the German-Italian plan in principle. M. Maisky supported the Anglo-French proposals.

Other powers will express their views this afternoon and the future course of procedure will be discussed.

ANGLO-GERMAN RELATIONS

London, July 9. The Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, in a speech delivered at the Albert Memorial on Thursday night, declared:

"I had hoped that the intended visit of the German Foreign Minister, Baron von Neurath, to England would have given us the opportunity to examine in a friendly spirit the difficult problems that confront us. Regrettably, however, circumstances arose which made it necessary to abandon the visit. I attach great importance to the personal touch between influential statesmen, and share fully the hope of the German Foreign Minister that another opportunity for discussing pertinent problems will arise, and lead to a better mutual understanding of the respective standpoint."

How simple it is for separate nations to come to an understanding, was shown by the Empire Conference.

INTERNATIONAL SITUATION

PRIME MINISTER ON SPAIN

The Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, referred to the international situation in a public speech at the Albert Hall, London, last night. He emphasised that Britain's policy in regard to Spain remained unchanged, namely, to prevent the conflict from spreading. He did not believe anyone wished to start a European conflagration. Difficulties would be immediately relieved if they could agree on the withdrawal of volunteers thus leaving Spain to settle her own future for herself. But troubles that had arisen out of the civil war in Spain were only a by-product of deeper causes of unrest in Europe.

Mr. Chamberlain

In regard to these he said, "I had hoped that the projected visit of the German Foreign Minister to London would have furnished us with opportunities for exploring these difficult problems in a friendly and helpful spirit. Unfortunately events occurred which made it necessary to postpone that visit but I do place great reliance upon personal contacts between influential statesmen and I fully share the view of the Foreign Secretary that some other occasion will present itself for discussions which may lead to better understanding on each side of the others point of view."

The Premier exemplified the ease with which the countries could reach an agreement if they were animated by the right spirit by citing recent Imperial Conference. He mentioned the unanimous approval of the Dominions and India of Britain's rearmament policy. He would rather see great expenditure thus involved devoted to raising the level of human happiness but sometimes the longest way round was the shortest way home and he was certain the re-establishment of Britain's strength in arms would convince the world of the wisdom of settling its differences by peaceful discussion rather than by force.

SINO-JAPANESE HOSTILITIES

MISUNDERSTANDING

Peiping, July 9. Chinese militiamen were killed and four comrades wounded in this morning's clash which occurred as Shih Yu-shan's men were arriving in the neighbourhood of Wang Ping to take over garrison duties. Firing ceased at 8.30 a.m. It is understood that the affair which was evidently due to a misunderstanding is not allowed to prejudice the agreement.

By noon the majority of the Japanese troops had already returned to Fengtai. The remainder concentrated in designated positions. They are expected to follow as soon as they are satisfied that the Chinese have executed their part of the agreement.

A HITCH

Peiping (Later): A hitch occurred in the execution of the agreement. Both sides ceased with withdrawal and started a desultory exchange in rifle, machine gun and artillery fire.

MINISTER ARRIVES

Nanking.—Dr. Wang Chung-hui, Minister of Foreign Affairs, arrived here by air from Kuling.

MUTUAL SUSPICIONS

Peiping, July 9. The hitch was apparently due to mutual suspicions. Although some Japanese troops returned to Fengtai, others remained in occupation of points near Wang Ping, including the railway station in order to supervise movements of the Chinese whereupon the latter decided to hold ground until the intentions of the Japanese are clarified.

TROOPS EVACUATE

Peiping, July 9. After a brief clash attributed to another misunderstanding, Chinese troops completely evacuated Wang Ping and Marco Polo Bridge and other points stipulated in the agreement.

The majority of Japanese troops have also been withdrawn although they retain possession of the railway station to the north of Wang Ping.

THE FENGTAI CLASH

A Chinese Viewpoint

Peiping, July 9. It is evident that the Fengtai incident is a pretext of the Japanese militarists for making further aggressive movements against China's sovereignty in North China.

Although negotiations in connection with the recent clash between Chinese and Japanese troops are proceeding in Wangping District City, rifle and gunfire have suddenly broken out to the east of the City.

The Chinese military command is cool and steady under the circumstances, and has not fired a single shot. Although many Chinese soldiers have been killed in defending their positions, the orders of the higher command are not to advance against the aggressors, but to hold their positions.

A WATCHFUL POLICY

The Chinese Government is adopting a watchful and waiting policy, but is prepared for all eventualities. Foreign observers are keenly watching the turn of events in North China, as the behaviour of the Japanese militarists is not only disturbing and damaging to peace and trade in China, but is highly detrimental to the commercial and trading interests of all foreign countries who have relations with China.

The Chinese Government is viewing these acts of aggression with patience and recognition, and will not retaliate unless driven to the wall by further unbearable acts of aggression.

It is well-known that the Japanese militarists had been manoeuvring for months to gain possession of certain strategic positions round about Peiping for the purpose of suddenly seizing the northern Capital on the slightest pretext. But it is hoped that the Japanese Government will curb these hot-headed and over-zealous militarists before the present farce is carried too far.

China's 400,000,000 is now wide awake and the whole civilised world is also watching, and Japan should take good care that she does not call down upon her the sworn enmity of China's millions as it would certainly mean her final destruction and extinction as a nation.

CHALLENGES

Their last meeting, which ended in a draw, was the thriller of the show, and providing both men come to terms, their next meeting should prove an attraction in itself. Young Aromin in turn has approached the Syndicate as regards a return bout with Fus. Fisher, as he was somewhat dissatisfied with the recent decision given in favour of the Army champion, and is confident of turning the tables on the Welsh boy if their fight comes off.

DEMANDS TOO BIG

The purses demanded by the fighters seems to be the big stumbling block in way of the Hong Kong Boxing Syndicate, and at present negotiations are at a standstill. Providing the men sign articles under the terms now offered, which seem somewhat unlikely, it is expected that the show will take place on or about the end of this month or the first week in August. Further details regarding the programme will be issued in these columns in the near future.

REFEREES MEETING

Instructive Talk By Mr. Kossick

The Hong Kong Football Referees' Association held a meeting in Gloucester Building yesterday when the second class for the civilian referee candidates was conducted. The meeting was well attended.

Mr. D. Kossick, who was in charge of the classes gave most instructive information to the candidates. He began by discussing the different modes of how an examination for referees was being held. He pointed out to candidates that they should be confident and that he was positive that catch questions would not be asked in an examination.

Good appearance, continued Mr. Kossick, of a referee was required. He should always be on his tip-toes, slowness of any description would soon be noticed. Whether a referee should be the judge of a senior or junior division, he should always be accurate in his decisions and always showing the same efficiency, a junior team expected the same efficiency and anything contrary to that would be noticed.

After giving more useful points to candidates Mr. Kossick discussed the laws of the game in detail. Another of these classes for civilian referees, will, it is understood, be held at 5.30 p.m. on Friday next.

SHORTAGE OF OFFICERS

Too Many Have Been Shot!

Moscow, July 8. Foreign readers who have been horrified at reading of the wholesale shooting among the officers of the Red Army may be afforded an ironic satisfaction at the report that an acute shortage of officers in the Red Army is making itself painfully felt.

Young soldiers are encouraged to enter the officers training schools, the following official statement being broadcast from Moscow yesterday:

"The political department of the Moscow military council has organized a propaganda programme yesterday for the officers training schools. At 3 p.m. information concerning the enrolment in the different training schools was given out. Demonstrations of the different weapons and pieces of equipment were then held and tanks and telegraphic apparatus could be seen in operation. A number of most modern amphibian tanks of the Moscow garrison could be seen in operation in Lake Park. The success of the propaganda was considerable, and the War Commissariat will organize other similar presentations in other large cities of the Soviet Union."

GERMAN POINT OF VIEW

Berlin, July 8. The "Berliner Boersenzeitung," one of the most important Berlin financial papers, which often voices the opinion of the Foreign Office, in a leading article on occasion of the German victory in the New York automobile race, discusses the fact that in a certain section of the foreign press, all achievements of the new Germany are being reported so as to create the impression as though they were make believe, or "Potemkin Villages."

Recalling that during the Olympic Games, Germany won 33 Gold medals in the sphere of sport, reminding its hearers of the Schmeling victory over Louis, speaking of the fact that Germany received the Mussolini Cup and two other prizes at the International Film Exhibition in Venice from a very critical panel of judges, stressing the achievements on other fields, the paper states that this all cannot well be "make believe."

If so, the paper continues, it is furthermore remembered what a difference there is between North America and Germany, the former being a rich country, with all the natural resources at its command, the latter, by the Treaty of Versailles having been brought to the verge of military, psychic, economic, political, territorial and moral abyss, German achievements must gain all the more significance.

An understanding and a mutual respect between the countries of the world would well be possible, the paper concludes, if the world could be rid once and for all from professional mischief makers.

NON-INTERVENTION COMMITTEE

Plenary Session At Foreign Office

London, July 8. The plenary sitting of the Non-Intervention Committee is being held in the Foreign Office to-morrow morning when representatives of the 27 states will have before them the proposals made by the British and French Governments and by the German and Italian Governments respectively.

After last week's meeting of members of the Chairman's sub-committee, a communiqué, containing a full report of the discussion which arose when the German and Italian counter-proposals to Franco-British scheme for the re-establishing naval control were presented, was circulated to members of the full committee in order that all their governments might be fully informed of the situation. In the House of Commons this afternoon Lord Cranborne, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, stated in reply to a question that the British Government noted with satisfaction the statements reported to have been made recently on behalf of both parties in the Spanish conflict to the effect that they would be prepared in certain circumstances to contemplate the withdrawal of foreign combatants from Spain. Lord Cranborne added that this was a matter to which

It has also been publicly stated that the main offenders in connection with the opium traffic are the Japanese whose methods have played havoc with the morale of the northern Chinese. Diplomatic protestations from China to Japan are countered with the bland reply that "we were not aware that such a state of affairs existed or that offences of this nature were being committed." It is the custom for the Japanese diplomats to suggest that proof be supplied so that "action may be taken," realising that the obtaining of proof in the form of actual perpetrators is almost impossible when the offenders can find sanctuary within the concessions.

However, the opium menace is being thoroughly tackled by the Government in China itself, and, as I have said, the death sentence on traffickers is rigorously enforced.

So with smuggling and many other features detrimental to the morality and commercial integrity of the Chinese nation. The process is of necessity slow, but, I think, sure.

Madame Chiang Kai-shek Speaks

If ever there was a wife who was genuinely worthy from every point of view of the designation "helpmate," that wife is Madame Chiang Kai-shek. She exercises a truly remarkable influence on the tone of the nation from the spiritual angle. She is a very devout Christian, and it was she who converted the Generalissimo to that faith. I will not, in this article, deal with Madame Chiang as a personality, but I wish to mention her in connection with the great driving force she is in the New Life Movement.

Through one who is closely associated with the Generalissimo I was privileged to obtain some observations from Madame his wife about the movement which is effecting the spiritual regeneration of China. Here are her words. "After three years of experience," says Madame Chiang, "we are still more than ever convinced that the most vital force in the reconstruction of our nation is the spiritual life of the people. The New Life Movement is slowly winning the confidence of the people, for we are still very conservative, and is fact becoming a centre where all agencies, both governmental and private, interested in the welfare of the people may find a common meeting ground. The river of new life released three years ago in Nanchang is gradually gathering into one great flood embodying the currents of life and thought that go to unify and reconstruct the nation. The Generalissimo has emphasised three immediate needs of the nation—sincerity, efficiency and living the New Life. Those who have failed us are those who have refused to pay the price of living the New Life. You cannot serve God and mammon, or attempt to live a regenerated vitalised life and at the same time maintain a selfish attitude toward the needs of society."

The Work Goes On

That gives some idea of the mighty spiritual revival which, more than anything else in my opinion, is drawing the people of China closer and closer together in the great cause of a united and unified nation. In every school, college and university; in every factory and business house; in the villages and in the great cities, the gospel of the New Life Movement is being preached with a fervour and persistency which has reached the apex of a grand crusade for China's national renaissance.

It is a movement unique in the history of the world; it constitutes an inspiring example to the materialistic West. That is one of the many lessons which China can teach the world.

(This article, together with the first instalment which appeared in this paper yesterday, will be published in "The Hong Kong Weekly Press.")

UNUSUAL EVENT AT THE ZOO

It is very seldom that anyone at the Zoo is injured by animals or reptiles there, but at the end of last month the Curator of Reptiles had a narrow escape from a terrible death. Dr. Burgess Barnett was examining a night-viper which bit him on the left hand. This snake is very deadly and owes its name to the fact that it hunts frogs for food by night, killing them by striking them with its poison fangs.

Fortunately, Dr. Barnett is versed in the knowledge of anti-venom serums, and thanks to a prompt application of the correct serum his life was saved. His is now well on the way to recovery.

It is several years since the last accident of the sort. On that occasion a keeper was bitten when unpacking a consignment of rattlesnakes. His life was saved by having the wound opened with a knife, and permanganate of potash rubbed in and a ligature applied. An agonizing but effective cure.

INVITATION STILL OPEN

London, July 8. In regard to the press references to the possibility of an early visit to London of the German Foreign Minister, it was pointed out in London to-day that Baron von Neurath's visit which was to have been paid a fortnight ago was at that time merely postponed and that so far as the British Government was concerned the invitation was still open.

GERMANY TO STAND FIRM

Non-Intervention Proposals

Berlin, July 8.

There is semi-official indication that Germany intends to stand by the Italo-German non-intervention control plan at to-morrow's meeting of the full Non-Intervention Committee, despite the fact that it conflicts with the Franco-British scheme and the expressed wishes of the majority of powers.

This indication was contained in a statement that the hasty rejection of the Italo-German plan or any attempt to wreck it by menaces, with the open approval of the Spanish-Bolsheviks, would show lack of goodwill necessary to localise the Spanish conflict.

The key-note of press comments is optimistic respecting the success of to-morrow's meeting.

The "Hamburger Fremdenblatt" says the breathing space which has elapsed since the Italo-German offer was made has not been utilised. The differences between the two groups are as sharp as ever and a compromise solution is inconceivable.

"Diplomatische Korrespondenz" writes of the seriousness of a breakdown in negotiations, which would threaten to make Spain again the centre of danger for the rest of Europe, a fact which will have escaped nobody, the paper points out.

Germany, this well-informed journal continues, is fully prepared to discuss all possibilities to preserve or intensify non-intervention, and expects the same attitude from others.

EXAMINATION CRITICISM

MR. M. K. LO

Hon. Mr. M. K. Lo said:—
For years now I have studied its Annual Reports and, if I may say so, I have followed with concern and sympathy, the difficult and anxious period of its history during the inter-regnum before the Rev. Mr. Sargent took over. You who are of the school, or connected with the school, must of necessity know more than a friendly outsider, like myself, how much the school owes to Mr. Sargent, but I venture to suggest that even you cannot adequately appreciate all that it does owe to him for having recaptured and revived that spirit of self-denial and disinterested service which is such a notable feature of its history.

GOVERNOR'S SPEECH

His Excellency said:—
It is a great pleasure to my wife and myself to take part in to-day's function. I think I can claim to know something about the Diocesan Boys' School as I once acted as its Treasurer in those distant days when it was situated above the Government Civil Hospital. I do not think Mr. Sargent will expect me to answer his criticisms of the new Examination system. As a voting member of the Board of Education he will, I suppose, have plenty of opportunity of voicing his grievances, and anything that I could say on this platform would, I am thankful to say, be quite worthless in comparison with the considered views of that body. In fact, if I may raise the general question, I would venture to give my view that the newspaper columns are all very well for discussing donkey-rides at Repulse Bay or Z.B.W. programmes, but that school curricula are a technical matter which may well be left to the representative Board whose main concern they are. It is good to hear that in the matter of regular attendance the Diocesan Boys' School sets itself a high standard. The complaint of unnecessary absences is such a common topic of prize-day speeches that it is quite refreshing to find that this is not a necessary and constant feature of school-life in Hong Kong. I hope that the boys who are coming back will maintain that fine tradition and that those who are leaving will carry with them the lessons of punctuality and honest endeavour that they have learnt in the Diocesan Boys' School. Short speeches were made, one in English and one in Chinese, by school prefects, W. F. Lau and Kaan Chee Wan.

AIRMEN SEEK UNIFORM MAP

Conference Bid To End Muddle

An attempt is to be made at the conference of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale in London to clear up the big air map muddle.
At present air maps are of all kinds, in all scales, and with all symbols. A pilot making a long voyage must be prepared to interpret widely-different symbols and widely-different signs and colourings, and he must be prepared, at any moment, suddenly to jump to a different scale.

As result of this lack of uniformity the problems of aerial navigation are unnecessarily complicated. Not only are the pilots confused, but also those who are responsible for the preparation of "strip" maps—covering a particular course—and those who deal with air navigation regulations in the French and British Ministries.

The International Convention for Aerial Navigation came to some sort of agreement on air maps and the world map on the scale of 1 in 1,000,000 was undertaken by general consent. But larger scales than this are also needed and France, Great Britain and Germany are preparing a 1 in 500,000 map. But here signs of lack of uniformity are already plain. The Fédération will discuss the problem of a uniform map. The matter will be raised by the British Royal Aero Club, and a plan will be put forward for the use of the same scale, markings and symbols.
